

Let's get vocal for local.

We are in the epicentre of a life, like we never imagined. It's now more important than ever to come together, a 'SWADESHI' movement of sorts, all over again. Our Crafts, weaves and art, that is a representation of our culture, heritage and unique craftsmanship; needs our support, however big or small.

CCTN, takes a step towards the same, by bringing to you a virtual shopping experience. You get to see the familiar faces and creations that adorned our Crafts Bazaar, year after year, now on your screen. We are showcasing the products that is lying with them due to their inability to travel, or participate in bazaars.

A smile on their face and a help for them to get through these tough times, is just a call away.

Vanakkam.

Meet your craftsman Vijaya Kumar

We are happy to introduce you to this family of fine Wood Craftsmen from Salem, Tamilnadu. Vijayakumar is a 3rd generation wood sculptor, who began his sojourn with this fine craft at the age of 9. His Father K Lakshmanan has been doing this work for 50 years having learnt the craft from his father.

Today they continue with passion, this craft handed down generations; by primarily carving idols and vahanams that adorn the 'Thaeru' - The Temple cars or chariots that carry Hindu Idols. The different pieces that adorn this huge structure are many in number, and breathtaking to behold. Apart from this the father son duo make many decor pieces inspired by popular lore, as well as boards for traditional games like Pallanguzhi, wooden walkers used for toddlers, and the popular rocking horse.

To help them tide over this challenging phase of the Pandemic, we have very limited pieces, purely meant for stock clearance and will be sold on a 'first come first serve' basis.
